TAKEAWAYS : OUR EXPLORATION

While putting together this awesome website together, the mello gang learned a lot of cool stuff, some of which includes:

- 1) Integrating vue.js with django: Was a bit complex but we made it through.
 - 2) Stuff that can be done with webpack loader: No need to run two servers everytime you make a change.
 - 3) Creating a custom login and signup authorization django page.
 - 4) Reducing the length of code by using v-bind:style to style the elements in vue components.
 - 5) How to deploy a site and what all changes are needed to make your site deployable.
 - 6) Bootstrap classes that can really make a difference to the overall look and feel of the site.
 - 7) Using javascript more than usual to create a dynamic feel on the buttons and tabs.

THE HURDLES WE FACED

- 1) Using webpack loader: File size increased enormously and also there were a lot of errors that were simply shenanigans.
And everytime a small change was made webpack loader had to be loaded again before running the server. (huff! solved)
- 2) Using django models: While using webpack loader it was really tough to add the models in django and once it was done the site took more than 2minutes to open the homepage after deployment. (unsolved!!)
- 3) Deployment: This part was damm complex. Cause vue.js and django integration via webpack is not that common and so, a lot of changes were made to a lot a files which really got messy. (finally solved!)
- 4) Maintaing a .vue file for almost every page: There are around 8-9 pages on our site each of which required a seprate vue component and an index.html fie for better design and functionality. (solved solved solved!)
- 5) There were a lot of issues faced while styling the background-image in vue components. (unsolved)
